

Dedicating a Poem to Swamiji

Om Gurubhyo Namah

Dedicating my Poem at Swami Sadatmanadaji's Lotus feet..

My Sojourn at Ashram..

*A place so Serene and Divine
Nothing but Nature in all pristine
Nature blankets the buildings
And the greens caressing in all springs.*

*Chirping Birds are your Nature's Alarm clock
And temple bells chime, it's time to pray for all walks
The Spiritual deer, sparks for a second
And enchanting demure peacocks are beauty beyond*

*No buzzing mobiles, or bustling lives
Silence in ample, a rare commodity in all times
Delicious Sattvic Food to satiate our taste buds
And Food for Soul to enliven our Dried lives*

*Guided Meditation, taught us lot in Contemplation
Amrita Bindu Upanishad, was not a Bindu but Vedanta Sindhu
Swarupa AnusandhanAstakam's 8 verses, was Vedanta in Infinity..
And Soothing Shanti's bhajans reenergised a long tiring Day.*

*Got to know that Desire, the Kama was undesirable
Would surely leave you out of Calm and which is Irreversible
As a child, talking was always encouraged more
And Vedanta taught me Silence is what you need in galore*

*As I take a knowledge road, untrodden
Swamiji's insightful preachings brightens the path
And adding to this his brilliant quick-wit
Search for Brahman is truly now our Grit.*

*Eyes and Ears wait every day for Swamiji's Darshan and Lectures
As an ardent lover of Vedanta, it leaves me wordless
A weeklong stay, never knew how it flew away
Heart yearns silently for an yet another long stay*

*As I paint my canvas of life, with new shades of Vedanta
A new perspective of Life triggers from deep within
A journey to be taken all alone and long
Nothing, but need my Guru to steer my life all-long.*

With Deepest Obeisance
